Cloud Logistics brings the newest generation of logistics solutions to the global supply chain market. We make the complexities of order collaboration, communication and transportation management simple, so that companies of any size benefit from our unique configurable architecture. Social work tools for business, such as our Logistics Activity StreamSM (LAS), allow each person involved with an order or shipment the ability to attach documents, photos and videos entirely within a private secure community. Only one-third of the companies in North America use a TMS today. Keeping that in mind, the Cloud Logistics' architecture was developed to address the needs of all shippers. Accessible from your smartphone, our LAS and TMS are available anytime you need to search for an important order or shipment status, even allowing you to see its location on a map. Offering our customers configurable process workflows, user experiences, alerts, and dashboard widgets, we make it possible to deliver software as a self-service (SaaS) completely within our cloud based network. Cloud Logistics is on a mission to deliver the most innovative logistics solutions to all.

QProducts & Services (Q) provides Food Retailers and Grocery Manufacturers with thermal & technology solutions to protect the temperature integrity of its sensitive commodities in transit. Retailers who face challenges distributing ice cream can benefit from a new product called “Cap & Wrap”, creating a unique opportunity to retain frozen quality inside a 34F temperature zone – without any dry ice! Cap & Wrap was specifically designed for the grocery retailer. It plays an important role in solving larger distribution challenges – such as driver shortages, miles driven, and shelf life of frozen trailers. Stop by booth #24 to learn more. On the manufacturing side, shippers who face obstacles managing seasonal weather extremes are now turning to Q & Riskpulse for a long term solution. A new software tool is being used by CPG companies to quantify temperature risk, which guides decisions on the appropriate mode selection. Benefits included reduced shrink, increased capacity and reduced transportation spend! Stop by booth #24 to learn how our partnership with Riskpulse has taken the concept of using thermal blankets to a whole new level!
